The Salvadori Center, a New York City-based educational non-profit organization receives grant for its in-school and after-school Science, Technology, Engineering, Arts/Architecture, and Math (STEAM) programs for underserved students.

Salvadori recently received a $1,000 grant from Investors Foundation at New York City. The grant will help further Salvadori's mission to close the achievement gap by offering hands-on curricula that support academic growth for traditionally underserved students at more than 80 sites.

For 43 years, the Salvadori Center has provided innovative project-based STEAM programs in schools, community centers, hospital schools, and homeless shelters throughout all five boroughs of New York City. This grant will help support our programs that increase students' comprehension of STEAM concepts and develop vital 21st century skills.

Salvadori brings experiential STEAM learning to underserved K-12 children. Through a collaborative, hands-on, project-based approach, students receive a personal understanding. Our unique approach gives students 21st century skills that enable them to close the achievement gap and break the cycle of poverty.
